Nelson Mandela

Recently several trials have involved charges of high treason against those who have participated in guerrilla activities, such as attacks on police and military installations and sabotage of power station and rail networks. Such activities have been undertaken because the regime has persistently refused to listen to peaceful protest and has acted with such brutality to crush it (as in Soweto when over 1,000 schoolchildren were shot dead) that the people have been left with no alternative but to submit to the degradation of apartheid or to fight. The answer of the regime has been to sentence these young people to death. AAM opposes the death sentence and believes that in such cases captured freedom fighters must be accorded Prisoner of War status, as required by the Geneva Conventions, to which the African National Congress, the liberation movement, has declared its adherence. Protests to the regime, and calls upon our government to intervene, have been decisive factors in preventing such executions.

'Detention means that midnight knock when all about you is quiet... it means your seizure at dawn, dragged away from little children screaming and clinging to your skirt, imploring the white men dragging mummy to leave her alone.'

Winnie Mandela

I am interested in joining/more information about the Anti-Apartheid Movement.
